

Eleonora Priori

PhD candidate in Economics and Complex Systems
Università degli Studi di Torino

Dipartimento di Economia e Statistica
Cognetti De Martiis

Born in Genoa (Italy), September 4th, 1993.

Education

2017: Master in Data Sciences and Complex economic systems (MADAS) at Collegio Carlo Alberto.

2016: Master's degree in Economics at Università degli Studi di Torino.
Graduation thesis in "Econophysics" supervised by Professor Pietro Terna. Title of the thesis "Basic income and technological innovation: an agent-based simulation facing structural changes on the labor market", final grade: 108/110 (with mention for the dissertation thesis).

2014: Bachelor degree in Economia Aziendale at Università degli Studi di Genova.
Graduation thesis in "Politica Economica e Finanziaria" supervised by Professor Marco Mazzoli. Title of the thesis "Analisi dei fenomeni di jobless recovery e riflessioni sul futuro del mercato del lavoro", final grade 102/110.

Teaching experiences

October 2018 - March 2019: tutoring and exercitations in Microeconomics and Macroeconomics courses (1st Year of Political Sciences students' at Università degli Studi di Torino).

July 2018: Teaching Stata within the project "Child Labour Data Analysis Training" at International Training Centre of the ILO of Turin, Italy.

Publications

Is correlation enough? (Spoiler: no!), essay published within the anthology "Datacrazia", 2018.

Ongoing projects

- The methodological status of Agent-based modelling. Simulations as a way to causal explanations. Roberto Leombruni, Eleonora Priori.
- Simulating Epistemic Bias in Academic Recruiting. Carlo Debernardi, Eleonora Priori, Marco Viola.

Languages

Italian: mothertongue.

English: fluent.

Programming Skills

Python

R

NetLogo

Stata

In compliance with the Italian legislative Decree no. 196 dated 30/06/2003, I hereby authorize you to use and process my personal details contained in this document.